Man's Greatest Asset

The universal membership, enrolment campaign recently conducted by the Red Cross Society throughout Canada had for its object the arousing of the people to the vital need of greater personal interest in the matter of health.

It was not a campaign to raise money, but a Dominion-wide and well-organized effort to secure an active and intelligent public interest in measures for the prevention of disease, it being realized that an ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure. The average man, woman and child gives little heed to their physical well-being until they are afflicted with some ailment, and then there is a hurry-up call for a doctor.

That there is need for a great awakening on the part of the public in regard to matters of personal hygiene and public health was demonstrated by the enforced medical examination of men for military services during the war years, but, startling as were the disclosures from those examinations, even more staggering are some recent figures and opinion contained in an article in The Journal of Health and Sanitation, written by Dr. J. H. Kellogg, superintendent of the famous Battle Creek Sanatorium.

Races of men have sometimes died out and utterly disappeared and Dr. Kellogg is of the opinion that this may happen to the whole human family if we continue to live under what he considers present unnatural conditions. Man, says Dr. Kellogg, is a very old-fashioned animal trying to live in a new-fangled way, in a manner that no animal ever before adventured, and so unnatural and so ill-adapted to his constitution and his requirements as to render his ultimate undoing inevitable. Man is by nature an open-air dweller. But the business and professional men, incarcerated behind the doors of their offices, with their assistants, day after their time, and, on the average, twenty years sooner than the farmer whose vacation keeps him in the open.

Present-day habits and methods of living are held accountable for the physical deterioration of the race, and for the prevalence of diseases which are carrying off people by the million. According to Dr. Kellogg, the United States loses from its population of 100,000,000 by death 1,500,000 people every year, while 3,000,000 people are sick all the time. In other words, one-fifth of the population are inefficient or lost. He estimates that an average of seven days are lost from labor by sickness every year. Tuberculosis is gaining ground, and kills one out of every ten of the population. Cancer kills one in twenty. Other maladies are rapidly gaining ground. In England and Wales the insane are increasing twice as fast as the sane, and in France ten times as fast. Coupled with these alarming symptoms, there is the serious fact that the birth rate in nearly all civilized countries is rapidly declining.

Dr. MacNeill, superintendent of the Mental Hospital at Battleford, Sask., made the statement recently in a public address at Regina that at the present rate of increase of mentally deficient people there would not be enough mentally efficient people to look after them fifty years hence.

In support of his contention that present habits and methods of living are responsible for existing conditions, Dr. Kellogg draws attention to one of the interesting lessons from the war, namely, the notable lowering of the death rate in several countries. In Denmark the death rate fell 35 per cent, due in the opinion of Dr. Hindede, the Danish food controller, to simpler habits of living, and especially the low-protein diet and the use of coarse bread. In Germany, too, diabetes has practically disappeared from the same cause, and gout, formerly very common, is now unknown.

Good health is the greatest asset any person can possess. Wealth is of little value to a man if he does not possess good health so that he may enjoy it. Without health no one can get much pleasure out of life. Lacking health no person can be wholly efficient. If health is waste. Yet the best medical experts agree that, by taking proper precautions there is little reason for sickness, and that many diseases which now number their victims by the millions could be readily stamped out.

Health studies and health conditions must be given first place and foremost attention in our public schools. People must be made to understand that soundness of body is fundamentally essential in business, art, literature, politics and religion, as well as in warfare, sports and industry. By creating an enthusiasm for health promotion and physical perfection a long step forward will be taken towards the realization of that better state for all people towards which the world is blindly groping. A popular, nationwide Crusade for Good Health is imperative. Governments can do much, but the main essential is an aroused and active interest on the part of every individual citizen. The promotion of health is the only real, lasting and basic national policy for any country.

Japs Plan To Raft Timber From B. C.

Think Davis Structure Will Stand
Trans-Pacific Passage

A Japanese firm proposes to make another attempt to raft timber from British Columbia to Japan. They believe that the Davis raft structure, of which the outside rows of logs are laced with cable, can be made to stand the trans-Pacific passage. The first raft will leave this coast about August. It will have a super-structure of piled logs, strongly laced. Hitherto rafted logs have not withstood long sea journeys, except one which was taken from San Francisco to China about twenty years ago. Favored by calm seas the raft was safely landed. The Chinese, however, unused to big logs, took ten years to cut up this boom, using long-handled saws to make the boards.

One of the most effective vermifuges on the market is Miller's Worm Powder. This will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very considerable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they are better for children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

Canada's Huge Wheat Area

Prairie Provinces Have More Than
Ninety Per Cent. of the Wheat
Acreage.

The total area sown to wheat this season in the Dominion of Canada is estimated at 18,654,100 acres, an increase of half a million acres over the 1920 area, constituting a new record for this grain. Seven hundred and nine thousand one hundred acres of this is sown to fall wheat, leaving 17,945,000 to be sown this spring.

The prairie provinces have more than ninety per cent. of the Dominion's wheat acreage, with 17,418,900 acres. This shows an increase of 577,000 acres over the previous year.

Crossing Stock With An Automobile. If a motorist runs down a pig it is sure to be a blooded Berkshire, remarks the Boston correspondent. Every chicken slaughtered is a pedigreed bird worth $40 to $50. A yellow barnyard cur is a wire-haired fox terrier. A calf is always of Alderney or Guernsey blood—in fact, nothing seems to improve stock like crossing it with an automobile.

Fiction is less strange than the truth because we miss it often.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. W. Beesley, Millie Roche, Ont., writes "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past eight months and would not be without them. I used them for indigestion and teething and my baby is cutting his teeth without any trouble whatever. I can highly recommend the Tablets to other mothers." What Mrs. Beesley says thousands of other mothers say. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion and making teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Equinoctial" a Myth. That the equinoctial storm is a myth is demonstrated by an astute co-operative observer of the United States Weather Bureau, says the Scientific American. This popular belief is probably the result of teaching handed down from father to son. Old weather saws are very hard to eliminate.

Manitoba Free Press Crop Report. The Manitoba Free Press crop report, published June 7th, states that crop conditions are, if anything, more favorable than at May 17th. "It would be difficult to think of a more generally satisfactory report of conditions spread over so wide a territory," says the Free Press.

New Camera's Great Range

Can Photograph From Height Where Airplane Is Invisible.

Scientists of the United States Bureau of Standards revealed the details of a new photographic process but recently perfected. The discovery is expected to be of tremendous military value to the air service, as well as to have incalculable scientific and commercial application. It will give to the eye of the camera power which nature has never endowed to the human eye, for it will be possible for airplanes to make photographs from heights so great that the planes themselves will be invisible from the earth, and to penetrate haze that the human eye cannot pierce.

Will Oppose Renewal Of Anglo-Japanese Treaty

Said That Premier Meighen Will Use His Influence to Have Treaty Denounced.

London.—The advisability of renewing the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, a question in which Canada is vitally interested, will be the first subject before the conference of Prime Ministers in session here.

Premier Hughes, of Australia, interpreting the public sentiment of his country, will urge renewal, but Premier Meighen is also certain to throw the whole weight of his influence toward having the treaty denounced. The Canadian premier was willing to support a renewal of the Alliance providing it could be shown that such renewal was necessary to British interests, but it has become clear that no vital empire interest is involved and there is a strong sentiment here, both in Government circles and in the press, against the treaty, he has practically determined to fight against renewal to the utmost of his power.

The Premier of Canada will base his opposition to the treaty on three grounds: First—That the reasons which made it necessary in 1911 have since disappeared.

Second—That renewal of the treaty would be regarded as a challenge to the United States where the Harding administration and the new Congress have just taken a step in the direction of disarmament, and.

Third—That the formation of special alliances is antagonistic to the spirit of the times and to the endeavor that the world is making toward disarmament and peace.

In this attitude Mr. Meighen is certain to encounter strong opposition. Premier Hughes has been talking and giving interviews to the British press and is demanding the treaty be renewed. He urges, of course, that it be framed in such a way as to be satisfactory to the United States, but he here believes such a thing to be possible. The Australian Premier's strong card will be the attitude which Premier Meighen is almost certain to adopt on the question of naval defense. The Canadian Premier urging that this question be postponed until the next constitutional conference.

Re-Elected By Acclamation

Hon. C. A. Dunning, Provincial Treasurer, who was returned by acclamation to represent Moose Jaw County in the Saskatchewan Legislature.

B. C. Would Restrict Japanese Immigration

Victoria.—The Provincial Government, through Premier Oliver, has forwarded to the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in London, a cablegram strongly urging that any renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty should preserve to Canada the right to restrict Japanese immigration, something which the existing treaty does not stipulate. In connection with this subject, Hon. E. G. Barrow, minister of agriculture, has collected data showing to what extent Japanese and Chinese are engaged in the business of agriculture and horticulture in this province. This information has been forwarded to Hon. Dr. Toole, who accompanied Premier Meighen on his mission to England.

Greek Offensive Beginning

British Reserves Relieving Division On Sea of Marmora.

Constantinople.—Opening of the Greek offensive against the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor is believed to be imminent. British reserves are relieving the Greek eleventh division at Imid, on the Sea of Marmora, which is proceeding to the Ushak front, near the Bagdad Railway, northeast of Smyrna.

The allied high commissions here have authorized the Greek fleet to operate from Gallipoli, at the southwestern end of the Sea of Marmora, up through the Bosphorus and along the Black Sea to Bakum on the Georgian coast. The Greeks have assigned to this work a squadron consisting of 25 warships.

Ice Cream Is Luxury.

Ottawa.—In a judgment issued, the Board of Railway Commissioners has refused the application of the manufacturers of ice cream that this commodity should be placed in the second class for express purposes and not in the first class as at present. In rendering his judgment, Chief Commissioner F. B. Carvell declares that ice cream is essentially a luxury.

Old-Time Yarns in the West

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

I was managing the Fairford Post of the Hudson's Bay Company in the winter of 1874-5 and was fortunate enough to own a splendid train of dogs that I have mentioned in former sketches. Mr. Isaac Cowie at Manitoba House was my immediate chief and at his request I took a young sleigh dog to train with my own as well as a peculiarly fast slinging trot which covered the ground in an amazing way.

I had occasion to visit Manitoba House, or the Post as it was commonly called, and started early one morning in the dead of winter, hitching up the strange dog with my own. As I was taking a carole and traveling light, I intended riding all the way and dressed very warmly accordingly. My dogs were not at all pleased with the intemper and quite often would give him a sly nip behind, to which he would naturally retaliate, and this made the train go even at a faster pace than usual. We were about fifteen miles out from Fairford and well on towards the centre of the frozen lake, when feeling tired and cramped I called a halt and got out of the carole for a few minutes to stamp about and bring the circulation back. Turning my back on the dogs for a minute I heard a dash of bells and off they went in a flash, fortunately in the right direction. Running at top speed, I managed to keep near them for several miles, but noted with dismay they were gradually gaining ground and I was bloated, also sweating profusely, as I had far too many clothes on for a dog-runner. I stopped and rested a minute or two, then taking off my heavy coat jogged along at a steady pace. But gradually the train grew further and further away until lost to sight, and then I had only the marks of their claws on the hard drifted snow for a guide, and even these gradually disappeared as some light snow was falling. My dogs came over the hill and then too much and then it was a long time since breakfast and naturally all my grub was on the sleigh. I began to feel very much exhausted and an overpowering desire to rest at any cost came over me. Placing my foot on the ice I lay down on my back and stretched out my arms. My eyes closed and I verily believe I would have been fast asleep in two minutes, but I found my right hand holding something and on holding it to my sleepy eyes, lo and behold, it was a little frozen mouse, one of the kind with long noses. Goodness knows how he ever had got out here at least twelve miles from the shore, but on gazing at him a sudden conviction came over me that if I once fell asleep I would be like the mouse in a few hours—frozen stiff. With that I stiffly regained my feet, piled up my heavy coat, muffer and mittens on the ice and started for the Narrow at a steady trot.

Provisionally for me an enterprising Yankee had built a log cabin right in the centre of the right-of-way of the old Canadian Pacific location which, as old-timers will remember, had decided on this route. This cabin I struck just about sundown and I was about all in, no food during the day, the overheating in the morning and now chills had come on and my legs felt like lead. My hands were too numb to rap at the door, so I ran against it and on its opening, collapsed on the floor. Like all pioneers he was extremely hospitable, and taking off my outer clothes placed me in a warm bed, rubbed my limbs and gave me small doses of whiskey and water, so in a short time I was able to sit up and eat some supper.

Next morning I was at the Post bright and early hoping to find the dogs there, but no signs of them. At once went out a search party as there was some valuable furs at the back of the carole, a silver fox amongst them, but the searchers returned in the evening, reporting no luck. Several days elapsed and I was disconsolate, as parties had been out daily but could find no trace of the dogs. One evening, as I was looking out over the lake, I saw a dog coming in from the north-east at an unusually fast rate and calling Cowie to bring the field glasses we soon decided they were the missing dogs, but as they reached the landing, there were only four, the stragglers being some dogs. A young Indian was riding in the carole and told the following story: "I went out on foot to visit a line of wolf traps and on getting near the last one on the east side of the lake I noticed some strange animals walking round it. When they caught sight of me they came tearing in great bounds and thinking they were wolves I prepared to defend myself with an axe (the only weapon I carried). But when I saw they were dogs I then knew these were the train that had run away from Oge-mas, and my, but they were glad to see me and licked my face and hands. On going up to the carole I found Mr. Cowie's dog in my trap with a softly frozen foot and the harness still on him. So, as he would be of no further use, I knocked him on the head for wolf bait."

On examining the dog harness I noted that three of the belly bands were chewed in half, and on his telling this I at once realized what had happened. Nero, my second dog, was a slim, thin haired creature with a very small head and could get out of his traces at any time my simply slipping the collar over his head. Then he apparently had set to work and released his brothers one by one, leaving the unfortunate stranger to his own devices.

Lack of Co-operation is Producing Serious Situation.

London.—Great Britain, in a further communication to France on the Silesian question delivered through Lord Hardinge, British ambassador to France, calls attention to co-operate in the restoration of order in Silesia, and declares that the lack of concerted action is producing an increasingly serious situation. Great Britain suggests that all the British troops in Silesia be placed under British command which would involve the relinquishment of French military control at some points. It is explained that this would have the effect of freeing more British forces for independent action.

COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK

HEART SO BAD

Many women become run down and worn out by their household cares and duties never ending and sooner or later find themselves with weak hearts and shattered nerves.

When the heart becomes weak and the nerves unstrung, it is impossible for a woman to look after her household or social duties. The least little exertion or excitement leaves her in an exhausted condition, and not fit to do anything.

On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, you will be wise if you take a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Daniel Beason, Loganville, N.S., writes: "As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me. My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep; I would take smothering spells, and I was so weak I could not do my household work. I tried two doctors, but got no results. A friend advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I began to use six boxes, and I am completely relieved. I think they are the best medicine for heart trouble there is."

Would Be Serious Matter

Invalidation of Grain Act Would Make Chaos in Canada.

Mouse Jaw.—A chaotic condition of affairs would exist in the country should the Canada Grain Act be found ultra vires, is the opinion expressed by Justice Hyndman, chairman of the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission. In discussing the legal status of the commission and the Grain Act, his lordship pointed out that the situation would be similar to that which would exist should the Temperance Act be found unconstitutional. In such event, any person who wished to would be able to peddle whiskey without interference from the law. If the Canada Grain Act was found to be ultra vires of Parliament, this condition would obtain in the grain business. His lordship intimated that he considered it possibly the most serious situation which had confronted Canada for a long time.

West's Wonderful Future When Agriculture Possibilities Have Been Fully Developed

Much has been written regarding the achievements of Western Canada as a prime wheat growing region, supported by ten years of uninterrupted success in securing the world's premier honors for this cereal in contest with the first growers of the American continent. The west has become justly renowned for its grain production, and instead of the cattle-dotted prairie which the mind conjured up in the western plains, the imagination now pictures a sweeping vista of miles of surging waves of golden tossing heads justifying the appellation of "Granary of the Empire." The prominence given to the successful wheat growing is apt to suggest a specialization and exceptional achievement, but the versatility of Western Canadian production was very ably illustrated at the last International Livestock and Grain Show held in Chicago in 1920, when out of twenty-five prizes, Canada secured twenty-one, including the premier trophies for wheat, oats and, Clydesdale horses.

The prominence wheat receives may overshadow the production of other cereals to the exclusion of the successes they have also achieved in the international field. Yields of 120 bushels of oats to the acre have been recorded in Western Canada, and one-hundred-bushel yields have caused to cause comment. In point of quality, it might be mentioned that the $1,500 trophy for oats presented by the State of Colorado was won four times successively by J. C. Hill & Sons, of Lloydminster, Alta.

To take the successes of the last five years. In 1916, at the International Soil Products Exposition at El Paso, Texas, Alberta oats was awarded the sweepstakes, and later, when the same exposition came to be held at Peoria, Illinois, Alberta dropped one place, securing the second prize whilst the premier honor was divided between her sister provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In 1918, when the International Exposition was held at Kansas City, Manitoba secured the ascendancy over its sisters and carried off the first three prizes for oats as well as the sweepstakes for the same crop. In 1919, one of the years in which the wheat championship went to Saskatchewan, it also secured the premier oats honor with first place and sweepstakes. Coming right up to 1920, at the International Livestock and Grain Show at Chicago, J. C. Lucas, of Cayley, Alberta, brought the world's oat championship to his province. In the past five years, Alberta has secured the oat sweepstakes twice, Manitoba and Saskatchewan once each and divided it once. Never once has it left the boundaries of the three prairie provinces.

Barley, which is the other cereal in the production of which Western Canadian farmers have entered largely and pitted their crops against the best of the continent, rivals oats in its list of awards. For four successive years at the exhibitions of the International Dry Farming Congress held respectively at Lehighridge, Alta., Tulsa, Okla., Wichita, Texas, and Kansas City, Mo., the first prize was secured by an exhibit of Western Canadian barley. To follow this up, Manitoba carried off the first three prizes for this crop in 1918.

Taken in conjunction with the wheat records this is a truly remarkable showing, giving Western Canada nearly every cereal honor for a number of years against the competition of the world's first farming areas. And when it is considered that the huge tract which includes the farms which raised these champion crops, is yet to a great extent undeveloped, the achievement is still more remarkable and augurs a wonderfully productive future for the time when ever growing settlement shall have broken up the waiting millions of fertile acres.

Awarding Contract For Irrigation.

People of India Offer Human Sacrifices

Attempt of Troops to Rescue Woman Causes Riots.

A government report on the serious riot which took place recently in the village of Sirichir, in the Rajputana agency, states it was caused by the offering of human sacrifices. During the disorder seven persons were killed and ten were wounded. The village, which is the home of many members of the ancient sect of Charays, became greatly excited over the refusal of the Charays to pay the usual revenue contribution. Sepoys were sent to enforce collection, and found the Charays had followed traditional methods of bringing the vengeance of heaven upon the state by burning an old woman alive. She had been placed upon a pyre, which was lighted by her nearest relatives. When the troops attempted to rescue the victim, the villagers opposed them with knives and swords, wounding several soldiers. The Sepoys threw fired a volley into the crowd, which scattered, but the attempt to rescue the woman came too late to save her.

Lions Charge Auto

Thrilling Experiences of U.S. Naturalist While Taking Cinema Pictures.

Mr. H. A. Snow, the American naturalist, has had a thrilling experience just outside Nairobi while obtaining cinema pictures and specimens for the Oakland Museum in California. He had stationed his photographer on a convenient hummock, and was himself beating the game up to the camera by driving round in a car, when he struck a party of five lions. He stopped the car and fired, but missed, and two of the animals charged.

Mr. Snow immediately reversed and raced away, but the two animals kept pace a short distance behind. The hunter was suddenly horrified to find that a third lion had made a detour and was waiting for the car to come up. When within a few yards of the lion sprang, but the driver caused the vehicle to swerve, with the result that the beast hit the side of the car and rolled off.

The naturalist was beginning to leave the other two animals behind when the car hit a stone and he was flung out. This frightened the lions, and they made off, though Mr. Snow succeeded in shooting them later.

Sir John Eaton Entertains Veterans

Attractive Programme of Sports Enjoyed by Disabled Men.

Five hundred disabled war veterans and nurses in the Toronto hospitals were the guests of Sir John Eaton at his beautiful residence, "Ardwold," recently. Under the direction of managers from Eaton stores, the veterans were conveyed to Sir John's residence in autos and were personally greeted by the knight.

Playing host in an admirable manner, Sir John arranged an attractive programme of sports for the soldiers, who, despite their disabilities, showed prowess as athletes. The veterans' race was won by a real veteran, a man over ninety years of age, who has been through several wars. On leaving, the veterans were promised another visit "before the summer is over."

French See German Menace in Air

War Organization Maintained Complete and Could be Quickly Mobilized.

General Hirschauer, who, during the war was Air Commissioner for France, has written an article on the Development of Aviation in Germany. He sums up the conclusions of his article as follows:

"Today German air action could be only a simple replica of what was done during the war. We are stronger than Germany in the air, and we are stronger than she is on land. In a short time the situation can change, for Germany is working and has preserved intact her means of production. 'She wishes' to develop her air power, and is putting and will put in all the necessary activity."

"To meet the danger we should maintain our air forces in activity, largely develop our means of commercial air transport, and maintain a military aviation force that is always mobilized, and an air defence force on the spot. We should take away from Germany all facilities to arm without ruining the State, and centralize those of our finances that are devoted to national defence. We should bring to our air army resources that would be derived from other armies, and we should modify the conditions of foreign policy. The custody of the Rhine is not sufficient."

The conclusions of General Hirschauer are interesting, as showing that France is very thoroughly alive to the menace of German aviation.

Organ-Grinder Did Not Let Good Chance Slip.

Some men never let an opportunity slip. They make the most of every chance, as, for instance, a certain organ-grinder who once played his organ outside the house of Mascagni, the famous composer. Mascagni is often driven wild by hearing his music "murdered" on piano-organs, and on this occasion he left his house and interviewed the street musician. He did not send him away. He merely took the handle of the instrument, turned it around faster and quickened the tune. The organ-grinder smiled his thanks. Next day he again appeared in the street. This time his organ bore a large placard on which was inscribed: "Pupil of Mascagni."

A Library For Every Farm Is The New Slogan For Prairie Provinces

France Discusses Naval Program

May Abandon Battleships For Submarines and Destroyers.

In presenting France's programme of naval construction for the next three years, Deputy Paul Denie, reporter for the navy commission, advocated, in the chamber of deputies, the virtual abandonment of the building of battleships and battle cruisers and intensification of construction of submarines, torpedo boats, destroyers and aeroplane carrying ships.

The programme provides for the construction of 6 light cruisers, 12 destroyers, 12 torpedo boats and 30 submarines, at an approximate cost of 1,416,000 francs.

Mr. Denie asked the chamber to vote for the transforming of five battleships; work on which was stopped during the war, when the hulls were completed, into aeroplane motor ships. He refused to be drawn into a discussion as to whether he agreed with the British admiral, Sir Percy Scott, that the day of battleships was past, but quoted Rear-Admiral Sims, of the United States navy, and also Admirals Beatty and Jellicoe, of Great Britain, and Von Scheer, of Germany, as having a different opinion from Admiral Scott.

He pointed out that France, as a pacific nation, needed a navy for coast defence, not warships for offensive action, and said there was nothing to fear from Germany. France had no desire to attack any other nation. The principal reason for the abandonment of construction of battleships by France, he added, was the realization that France could not keep up the peace with Japan, England, and particularly the United States, which were building more units than before the war.

"A Library for Every Farm" might appropriately be adopted as the motto of the Agricultural Extension Service of the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, which attempts to circulate the best literature throughout the rural districts, and further encourages, as well as fosters greater interest in the social aspect of farm life.

Agricultural countries like Canada and the United States have always with them a subtle, half-exposed problem in the inherent tendency of the youth of the farm to be drawn to the bright lights and the allurement of the city. It is not that farm work is any longer the drudgery of the pioneers, for modern machinery has largely removed the arduous element from present-day farming, whilst the man with a successfully operated farm is now often the envy of the business and professional man. But the natural drift of youth is to imagine that which he has not surpassed those things which surround his everyday life, and to the youth of the farm the city's attractions, its theatres, its crowds and bustle seem eminently desirable to live among. It is exactly the same attitude which makes the city-bred youth turn to the country fields and pastures and find such pleasure in the quiet and solitude of pastoral life.

And so men who have most clearly realized this drift and its causes, and who the national danger it constitutes to a country whose foundation is the pursuit of agriculture, have devoted great energy to encouraging the youth to stay on the land, and have found the most effective remedy to be in furthering the pleasures of rural social life and bringing some of the things of the city to the country.

In Canada, the government has taken a hand in this, and by introducing many novel features of local life, and offering facilities for others, it has an important part in bringing to the young men and maidens of the farm, a realization of the large future they hold to themselves and to the nation. Lecturers travel the provinces to the river talks on a variety of subjects; school gardens are subsidized and encouraged; competitions for boys and girls are held in connection with all agricultural fairs; farm literature on every possible subject is available for the asking. In every deliberate manner the provincial governments show their appreciation of what the farm youth means to the country.

One of the keenest and most widely enjoyed pleasures of the country, especially in the winter season, is reading, for here there is oftentimes the leisure and the desirable state for enjoyment. Books in rural districts take the place of many other amusements, and the desire for books is a constant. Frequently a farmer is not in a position to collect a library of his own, and the city's facilities for borrowing books cannot be carried into the country districts. This question of supply, the provincial governments set out to solve.

Under the system as evolved by the Agricultural Extension Service of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, a rural community has to make an application for a "compact" folder, one containing fifty volumes is sent to them. These books cover a wide variety of subjects with a substantial proportion of fiction. The books are circulated among the different farms, and when read are returned to the bureau whereupon a new library comes along.

This system of travelling libraries is doing a splendid work both in brightening social life, and in cultivating the educational status of the farm population of these provinces. The best books only are to be found in these libraries, and careful plans are laid for the cultivation of desirable literary tastes. Whereas at first only a proportion of the volumes are fiction, this proportion is gradually decreased, and the deficit made up of more valuable works of economic thought.

Sheep Raising At Fort Vermilion

Conditions Reported Good for Sheep In Northern Alberta District.

W. J. Stark, secretary of the Alberta Provincial Sheep Breeders' Association, has received a very interesting letter from W. H. Russell, of Peace River, who has a flock of sheep at Fort Vermilion, and who has just joined the association for the purpose of marketing his wool through the annual association sale.

In his letter, Mr. Russell says he had a very difficult time shipping them to Fort Vermilion; they were taken in snow-laid fall; but wintered exceedingly well; out of a hundred and eight head, only two were lost during the winter; some lambs born in February weighed, on May 15th, forty pounds each. Mr. Russell states that so far they have had no trouble with wild animals, which is much more than many farmers can say who live much closer to the centres of civilization than Fort Vermilion.

Health of Animals

Provincial Veterinarian Says Condition of Stock Improving.

Dr. M. P. McClellan, provincial veterinarian for Saskatchewan, states that one of the best ways of judging how cattle came through the winter is by observing the condition of animals at the spring sales. By this test, their condition is incomparably better than a year ago. At the present time the general health of animals was never better. "The steadily increasing demand," says Dr. McClellan, "for blackleg filtrate and vaccine, which is handled by the livestock branch for the convenience of veterinarians and stockmen, amply testifies to the intelligent attitude adopted by the stockmen of the province toward preventive animal medicine."

Fringe Invades The Realm Of Pyjamas

By Marie Belmont.

Fringe is in high favor at the present time for adorning the varied garb of lovely woman. These pyjamas inspired by the cowboy's picturesque attire, show how effective fringe really is. They are made of pale blue crepe de chine and the fringe is of blue and pink silk. The shirt is cut generously long, so that it may be bloused about the figure. A soft fold of the crepe de chine is draped around the waist-line and knotted at the side. The collar duplicates the gay handkerchief of the cowboy, and is cut from blue crepe de chine. The turnback cuffs are also made of blue crepe de chine.

Two children were standing before the Venus de Milo.

"Wonder if she was married," said one.

"Course not," said the other. "No one could ask for her hand, 'cos she didn't have any."—Boston Transcript.

The Endurance of Your Automobile, Truck, or Tractor

Depends not only upon the time of Lubrication, but the kind of Lubrication.

Whitmore's Protective Composition

Adds 500% to Gear Life. Thousands of tests have been conducted by Lubricating experts to demonstrate the relative efficiency of various lubricants. The results of these tests conducted over years, has fixed the choice of sixteen leading manufacturers. These manufacturers include: The largest builder of fine cars in the world; The largest builder of trucks in the world; The largest builder of axles in the world; The largest builder of worm gears in the world.

Many Lubricants contain acid. They not only fail to counteract friction, but are themselves harmful and corrosive to gear and bearing surfaces.

Whitmore's Compositions Contain No Acids

They are proof against heat and cannot break down or squeeze out. In the Panama Canal Emergency Dam, six million pounds rest on an unbroken film of WHITMORE'S. After an exhaustive test the U.S. Army contracted for its exclusive use.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Algar, late of Calgary have taken up residence in the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sims.

There will be preaching service at Elba Schoolhouse, next Sunday, July 8th, at 3 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of the Elba district to be present. Rev. R. K. Swenerton will conduct the service.

Mr. H. E. G. H. Scholefield, U. F. A. Director, addressed a farmers meeting in the Strathmore district recently, touching on various points of vital interest at the present time. He declared for women taking an active interest in matters political. It was very necessary that they should do so. He also outlined the procedure to be adopted if a farmer candidate was to be run in any constituency. Several other interesting points were spoken of by Mr. Scholefield, no doubt we shall have the pleasure of hearing him in this district on some other question in the near future.

Social Gathering

Presentation and Farewell
Gathering to
Rev. J. P. and Mrs. Dingle.

Conrad's Hall was crowded on Friday evening last, by the friends of Rev. J. P. and Mrs. Dingle, who reluctantly have had to leave this district owing to the health of Mrs. Dingle.

Mr. H. E. G. H. Scholefield occupied the chair, and after a few remarks as to the object of the gathering, he called upon Col. G. G. Carleton, who in a brief speech handed to Mr. Dingle an envelope which contained a draft on a Calgary bank.

Rev. J. P. Dingle thanked the gathering and went over a few incidents upon his first visit to Crossfield some seven years ago, and spoke of the great grief he felt on his having to leave his work here.

The other speakers who all followed in the same strain in their remarks as to the heartfelt sympathy on Mr. and Mrs. Dingle having to leave, and hoping that Mrs. Dingle would soon be restored to her usual health and strength by the change of climate in Vancouver, were Messrs. Ivar Lewis, Minister of the Gospel; R. Whitfield, Senr., People's Warden; G. Huser, Jas. Cavanaugh, A. A. Hall.

A short program was given by the following: Several selections by the Crossfield District Band, Reading, Mr. A. L. H. Nicholson, Soloist, Mrs. M. Turner, Mrs. H. Scholefield, Mr. Waldo; Due Mr. and Mrs. Crocker; Accompanists, Mrs. R. T. Amery and Mrs. M. Thomas.

Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. and Mrs. Conrad for their kindness in loaning the hall for the gathering, to the Women's Guild for their willing help in many ways to make the evening a success, and to all others who had given their aid. Refreshments were served by the ladies. A most successful evening was brought to a close by singing "God Save The King".

BEAVER DAM

A meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walsh, on Tuesday next, July 5th, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of organizing a Ladies' Aid to the Beaver Dam district. All the ladies of the district are invited to be present.

K. Swenerton, Teacher of the Senior Class, Mrs. N. Vandellinder, Teacher of the Junior Class. The first session of the Sunday School will be held at Beaver Dam Schoolhouse, Sunday, July 10th, at 11 a. m.
